

Four weeks until General Election 2019 – what can we expect?

Centre for Brexit Studies Director Professor Alex de Ruyter has shared his views, thoughts and expertise around the current General Election proceedings, and what we can expect in the forthcoming weeks before voters head to the polls.

In a video shared today, Professor Alex de Ruyter discusses Donald Tusk's latest comments where he has urged British voters not to give up on stopping Brexit, as well as Labour not being the 'Remain Alliance' and the likelihood of a second Scottish independence referendum.

The expert also discussed if the election really is all about Brexit, if people are drifting away from their normal party alliance due to their Brexit views and what he thinks will happen in the next week of more political campaigning.
