A leading academic has shared his thoughts, views and opinions on the possibility of a No Deal Brexit and Boris John's premiership so far.

In a short video shared today, Dr Steven McCabe, Associate Professor at IDEA and Senior Fellow at the Centre for Brexit Studies, discusses the impact that a No Deal Brexit could have on the West Midlands and industries in the region, as well as Boris's big moves so far.

Dr Steven McCabe also discusses the possibility of a General Election in the coming months, what's next for the likes of the Liberal Democrats and the Brexit Party, as well as the Conservative Party and the Labour Party, and what we can expect over the next two months as we approach the October 31 deadline.
