

What does Boris Johnson's lockdown roadmap say about his leadership?

Centre for Brexit Studies Researcher David Hearne has shared his thoughts and views on coronavirus (COVID-19) and the recent changes to England's lockdown measures.

With confusion surrounding the updated measures, David discussed how well Boris Johnson and the Conservative Party Government are coming across during this pandemic, and what Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland sticking to the 'Stay at Home' message, rather than adapting to the 'Stay Alert' message, says about the Prime Minister's leadership.

In a video shared today, the expert also discussed what countries will be exempt from forthcoming coronavirus quarantine measures and if countries other than France and the Republic of Ireland will be added to this list in the forthcoming weeks.

David also discussed the latest in post-Brexit trade talks, and if the ongoing disagreements and slow progress could lead us towards a 'No Deal'.
