

Will lockdown be extended in the UK?

Centre for Brexit Studies Researcher David Hearne has shared his thoughts and views on coronavirus (COVID-19) and if we can expect lockdown to be extended this week.

In a video shared today, David discussed his thoughts around if we will go back to normal within the next month or so, as well as if restrictions last until later this year, what impact this could have on the UK.

The expert also discussed the Post-Brexit trade talks which are continuing throughout the Coronavirus crisis, and if we can expect the deadline to be extended, and if so, what is next for the Brexit process.

He also talked about Sir Keir Starmer's new Labour shadow cabinet, the big names and those to watch out for.
